H A G U E.

THE main Articles of the Treaty of Peace, between his Imperial and Catholick Majesty and his most Christian Majesty, which relate to the Netherlands and to Italy, are these following at large.

Article XIX. His most Christian Majesty having given up and caused to be given up to the States-General of the United Provinces, in favour of the House of Austria, all that his said Majesty or his Allies had remaining in their Possession of the Low Countries commonly called the Spanish Netherlands, so as the late King of Spain Charles II possessed or ought to have possessed them, conformably to the Treaty of Ryswick, his most Christian Majesty consents, that the Emperour shall enter into Possession of the said Spanish Netherlands, to enjoy them himself, his Heirs and Successors, henceforward and for ever, fully and peaceably, according to the Order of Succession established in the House of Austria: Saving the Agreements which the Emperour shall make with the said States-General of the United Provinces touching their Barrier and the giving up of the undermentioned Towns and Places. 'Tis likewise stipulated, that the King of Prussia shall keep all that he actually possesses of the upper Quarter of Gelderland, namely the Town of Gelder, the Prefecture, Bailliage, and under Bailliage of Gelder, with all that belongs to and depends thereon, as likewise particularly the Towns, Bailliages, and Lordships of Schralen, Wachtendonk, Midelaar, Walbeck, Aerden, Afferden, and Weel, as also Racy and Klein Kevellaar with all their Appurtenances and Dependencies: Besides, there shall be given up to the King of Prussia, the Ammanie of Krickenbeck with all that belongs to or depends thereon, and also the County of Kessel with all its Appurtenances and Dependencies, and generally all that the said Ammanie and the said District contain, without excepting any thing, unless it be Erkalens with its Appurtenances and Dependencies, the whole to belong to the said King, and to the Princes or Princeses his Heirs or Successors, with all the Rights, Pterogatives, Revenues, and Advantages, by what Name soever called, in the same Quality and in the same Manner as the House of Austria, and particularly the late King of Spain, possessed them; yet with the incumbent Charges and Mortgages, the Preservation of the Roman-Catholick Religion, and the Privileges of the States.

Art. XX. And as besides the Provinces, Towns, Places, and Fortresses, which were possessed by the late King of Spain Charles II on the Day of his Decease, the most Christian King has made over as well for his most Christian Majesty himself, as for the Princes his Heirs and Successors born or to be born, to the States General, in favour of the House of Austria, all the Right which he had or might have to the Town of Menin, with all its Fortifications and with its Verge, to the Town and Citadel of Tournay with all the Tournais, without reserving to himself any Part of his Right to them, or to any of their Dependencies, Appurtenances, Appendages, Territories, and Territories mixed with or inclosed in other Territories, his Majesty consents, that the States-General of the United Provinces shall restore the said Towns, Places, Territories, Dependencies, Appurtenances, Appendages, and Territories mixed with or inclosed in other Territories, to the Emperour, as soon as they shall have agreed thereon with his Imperial Majesty, to be enjoyed by him his Heirs and Successors, fully, peaceably, and for ever, as well as the Spanish Netherlands which belonged to the late King Charles II at the Day of his Decease. 'Tis provided however, that the said giving up of the Spanish Netherlands, Towns, Places, and Fortresses yielded by the most Christian King, shall not be done by the said States-General till after the Exchange of the Ratification of the Treaties of Peace between his Imperial Majesty, the Empire, and his most Christian Majesty; 'tis also provided, that Saint Amand with its Dependencies, and Mortagne without Dependencies, shall remain to his said most Christian Majesty, on Condition nevertheless, that it shall not be permitted to make at Mortagne any Fortification or Sluce of what Nature soever they may be.

Art. XXI. In like Manner the King confirms, in favour of the Emperour and of the House of Austria, the Cession, which his Majesty has already made in favour of the said House, to the States-General of the United Provinces, as well for himself as for the Princes his Heirs and Successors born and to be born, of all his Rights to Furnes and Furmambacht, therein including the Eight Parishes, and the Fort of Knoque, to the Towns of Lou and Dixmude with their Dependencies, to the Town of Ypres with its Caillanies, Rousselae therein included, and with the other Dependencies, which henceforward shall be Popperinghe, Varne-ton, Commines, Warwick, these 3 last Places because they are situate on the Side of the Lys towards Ypres, and what depends on the Places hereabove specified; of which Rights thus transferred to the Emperour, his Heirs and Successors, his most Christian Majesty reserves none to the said Towns, Cities, Forts, and Countries, nor to any of their Appurtenances, Dependencies, Appendages, or Territories mixed with or inclosed in other Territories; consenting, that the States-General may give them up to the House of Austria, to be enjoyed by that House irrevocably and for ever, as soon as they shall have agreed with that House on their Barrier, and the Ratifications of the Treaties of Peace between the Emperour, the Empire, and his most Christian Majesty shall be exchanged.

Art. XXX. His Imperial Majesty, and his most Christian Majesty, shall not for any Causa henceforward interrupt the Peace which is established by the present Treaty, resume Arms, and begin, under any Pretext whatever, any Act of Hostility the one against the other; but on the contrary shall endeavour sincerely and bond fid: and as real Friends, to corroborate more and more this mutual Friendship and good Understanding so necessary for the Good of Christendom. And whereas the most Christian King, sincerely reconciled with his Imperial Majesty, will not henceforward create any Trouble or Prejudice to him, his most Christian Majesty promises and engages to let his Imperial Majesty enjoy quietly and peaceably all the Territories and Places which he actually possesses, and which were formerly possessed by the Kings of the House of Austria in Italy, namely the Kingdom of Naples, as his Imperial Majesty actually possesses it, the Duchy of Milan as his Imperial Majesty actually possesses it, the Island and Kingdom of Sardinia, as also the Ports and Places on the Coasts of Tuscany which his Imperial Majesty actually possesses, and which were formerly possessed by the Kings of Spain of the House of Austria, together with all the Rights belonging to the said Laid States of Italy which his said Imperial Majesty possesses, as the Kings of Spain exercised them from Philip I to the last deceased King; his said most Christian Majesty giving his Royal Word never to trouble or disturb the Emperour and the House of Austria in that Possession, directly or indirectly, under any Pretext or by any Way whatever, nor to oppose the Possession which his Imperial Majesty and the House of Austria have, or may hereafter have, either by Negotiation, Treaty, or other lawful and peaceable Way, in such Manner however as that the Neutrality of Italy may not be troubled thereby; The Emperour promising and engaging his Word, not to trouble the said Neutrality and the Quiet of Italy, and consequently not to proceed by Way of Arms for any Cause or on any Occasion whatsoever; but on the contrary to abide by and observe punctually the Engagements which his Imperial Majesty is under by the Treaty of Neutrality concluded at Utrecht the 14th of March 1713, which Treaty shall be deemed as recited here, and shall be exactly observed by his Imperial Majesty, provided that on the other Part the Observation be reciprocal, and that he be not attacked, his Imperial Majesty engaging for the same purpose to let every Prince in Italy enjoy peaceably his own Dominions of which he is actually possessed, yet this without prejudicing the Right of any Person whatever.
